QUEEN VICTORIA ARBITRATRIX

It is a very remarkable yet accepted fact that in certain matters they know more in London of what is going on in the Plate than we ourselves do here. A few months ago there was much excitement in the national papers about the Misiones Question, and so hot and animated did the discussion grow that many of us thought we were threatened with another difficulty as perplexing as that from which we had just emerged with Chile. Time, that cures every thing, softened the language of our colleagues, and perhaps the views of both Governments. In the constant whirl of River Plate affairs we all lost sight of Misiones, Brazil, and the little frontier stream whose name we now forget. But if it was out of sight out of mind with us here, it was by no means the case with our friends in London, who watched with much anxiety the upshot of pending negotiations.

A little piece of news was published in the papers the other day, to which few attached the least importance, yet it had a significance perhaps better understood in Rio than in Buenos Aires. The news was that the new Brazilian loan for Ten millions sterling could not be floated in London, except at a price which the Brazilian Government would not accept. There are parties here who have received full advices by the Avon about this business, and the reasons stated in London why the loan failed. Without going into too many details in the matter, we may state that but for this Misiones Question pending and the attitude of the Montevidean Government, the loan would have been done, and at a good price.

It appears that under the terms of a note or protocol, signed by the Ministers of both countries, the time allowed for a definite reply by the Arg. Government to the Brazilian Government expired on Wednesday last, 10th inst., and a Cabinet meeting having been held, it was decided by the Argentine Government to offer again to leave the question in dispute to arbitration, and to propose to Brazil that Her Majesty Queen Victoria be named Arbitratrix. Barou Gondin, the Brazilian Plenipotentiary here, has received from his Government leave of absence, and will start in a few days for Brazil, taking with him the reply of the Argentine Government. It may be remembered that when this Misiones difficulty arose last year, the Argentine Government proposed arbitration, which was declined by the Brazilian Cabinet. The Argentine Government now repeats the offer, and proposes that Her Majesty the Queen be named by both countries to arbitrate; the question therefore is, will Brazil accept the Queen as arbitratrix or not? We, for our part, consider that Dom Pedro, with the chivalry of his great ancestors, will be only too glad to have so fair and so illustrious a judge to settle the dispute.

Dr Plaza, Minister of Foreign Affairs, displays great tact in offering to Brazil such very desirable terms for the settlement of all these questions; and as anything that can bring this country more into note in the high circles of Europe is most desirable, we hope and trust the arbitration will be carried out. Maps of the Upper Uruguay, Upper Parana, Corrientes and Misiones, laid before the Queen, to explain Her Majesty the topography of the country in dispute.

If the disputes between this country and Brazil are purely of Misiones origin, then, we have little doubt, all will be arranged most satisfactorily; but if, as many suppose, Montevideo, Banda Oriental and President Santos have more to do with our Brazilian Question than the Misiones, then it is quite clear that the offer of arbitration will amount to nothing; and if the Santos' Government can purchase arms, which they say in London the Montevidean Government is trying to do, then we have before us one of the most difficult political questions that ever arose in the Plate, and one which threatens great and serious complications.

It is very generally said that the Montevidean Government is buying arms, and, we believe, buying in this very market; but the wisdom of the Brazilian Statesmen will prove more than a match for the Oriental Government intrigues; and, although any alliance formed by Santos with Brazil would give rise to a great expression of feeling here, still we hardly think it possible that so great a power as Brazil would lend itself to an entanglingalliance productive only of the most dire disaster to the Plate.

We trust, therefore, that with Her Majesty the Queen as umpire, all our questions with Brazil will be satisfactorily arranged, and that Baron Gondin, when he returns from Brazil, will, like Lord Beaconsfield, bring a "Peace with Honour" treaty in his pocket.

SOUTH AMERICAN ANTIQUITIES

Science on this continent is yet in its infancy, as civilization has scarcely emerged from barbarism. Buenos Ayres, the capital of the Argentine Republic, has no great museum specially devoted to the collection of South American antiquities and curiosities. Mr. Moreno, in his constant investigation for the prehistoric skull, has got several hundred skulls of old Indians together, but it appears that the European Governments show more interest in this matter than Argentines, and the scientists of the continent know more about the archeological remains of South America than the Americans who live in their very midst.

Dr. Venatti, a well known Italian anatomist, has, during his 15 years' travels on this continent, made a precious collection of archeological remains, fossils, Indian mummies, etc. Having recently arrived in Buenos Aires, Dr Venatti intends exhibiting his splendid collection in the Calle Peru No. 83. As the catalogue of exhibits has not yet been published, we can only give a general description of same.

The learned doctor has collected a skull distinctive of each savage race of this continent from Venezuela down to Cape Horn. This collection of skulls is most valuable, as several of them, taken out of Indian mummies buried in old temples, prove that the extraordinary formation of the cranium of several tribes was not due to any artificial appliances but arise from a natural development, characteristic of the race. Herein Dr. Venatti may claim a scientific triumph over many, nearly all, the European scientists, who attributed the extraordinary formation of some craniums to the fact that the heads of Indian children were pressed and bandaged.

Several Indian mummies are most striking figures; the mummy in the centre is supposed to be several thousand years old. The heads of same are most extraordinary, having a circumference of 47 centimetres and a facial length of 33 centimetres. The Indians buried their kings in a kind of bag, like a 'bicho canastria' of our gardens, with amulets round their throats and a total crown on the head. The mummies are horrible to look at, and the process employed must have been far superior to that of the Egyptians.

Our space is too short to refer to the mineralogical collection, which shows the immense wealth of this continent; the specimens of ore are unusually rich. A mastodon's fossil attracts attention, owing to the immense proportions of the remains. South America offers a wide field for the search of the fossils of megatheria, and herein the Republic boasts of collections which may be envied in Europe. Dr Venatti's mastodon was found 14,000 feet above the sea, near the lake Titicaca. Bolivia seems to embody most of the mysteries of the old Indian races. The learned doctor informed us that the white people of Bolivia have adopted many of the customs and old superstitions of the Indian, and that the white as well as the red skin believes in the Indian amulet and its prerogatives here on earth and above.

Ladies might visit the museum, as they may gather some ideas of Indian dress in dress. The costumes of the women are simply gorgeous, entirely covered with birds of the tropics and their magnificent plumage; the arrangement of the feathers is beautiful, obeying esthetic rules and shewing consummate taste. The learned doctor has adopted two Indian girls, who attend him with the fondness of daughters. The younger one, about 18 years old, is the physical type of Chateaubriands' Atala, handsome and very intelligent; she talks French, Spanish, Italian and Quichua. The older is the Araucanian type, although she comes from Bolivia. Both are special attractions in the Museum.

Several specimens of South American fauna and flora are most interesting; the fossils of the Glyptodon and of other megatheria are also interesting. One of the most extraordinary exhibits is a "cactus" turned into copper, found in the bowels of Bolivia.

Indian instruments and articles of war are well-known to most of our readers and are too numerous to describe. We advise all to pay the Dr. a visit on Monday next, when he will open the Museum.

The Argentine Government should buy this collection from Dr. Vennati. The German Government has already made offers for same, and we think that the exhibits should be kept in Buenos Aires rather than in Berlin. The only original thing in America is the Indian. If his ornaments, articles and appendages are shipped to Europe, nothing remains in this Continent. Let the Argentine Government, at least secure exhibits which will somewhat contribute towards making this city interesting to the tourist and to the student. The Museum shews the energetic patience of a naturalist, and Sr. Vennati has spent the best years of his life in securing the collection.

THE LATE DR. CARRIL.

This venerable and distinguished Argentine died on Wednesday night in this city, in his 84th year. The long span of life of this eminent man embraced the whole history of his country since its emancipation, and his public services form a proud record which none of his contemporaries can show, and which his family may well prize as a patent of democratic nobility.

The deceased statesman was a native of San Juan, and attained the position of Governor of that province, marking his term of office by many liberal measures which bore the best fruit. He was a strong supporter of Rivadavia, and when the latter came to power was one of his Ministers. When Rivadavia resigned Dr. Carril opposed Dorrego and contributed powerfully to the success of Lavalle's revolution. During Rosas's time he was an exile in Montevideo, but on the Dictator's fall returned here and became vice-President of the Republic under Urquiza. After the battle of Pavon he became President of the Supreme Federal Court, a post which he held up to a few years ago, when he retired on full pay, with all the honours that Congress and Government could pay him, and which he so nobly won.

On her roll of illustrious sons Argentina has no other that has lent her more brilliant, constant and lasting services than the man whose loss she deplores to-day. It may almost be said that Dr. Carril was in his country's service from the cradle to the grave. Of the stern, unbending character that marks men for eminence, his principles never varied, and his personal rectitude left its stamp on the Supreme Federal Court, of which he was so long President, and founded a confidence in that tribunal, on the part of both Argentines and foreigners, which no other institution in the country enjoys.

Dr. Salvador del Carril was one of the very few survivors of the "old school," moulded of that stern stuff which is so essential to all nations, especially to young ones, to help them through the social and political transitions which all must experience. The Republic mourns to-day a good and faithful servant, and we join its sons in laying our tribute to his memory on his honoured tomb.

Peace to his ashes.

NEWS FROM THE FAR SOUTH.

From Patagones to Roca is a distance of 120 leagues, and the road and the telegraph line run parallel with the river Negro. All the lands on the left or north bank are 'poblared' or settled upon, and those parties who bought as they supposed these lands from the Government at the rate of 10,000 m/c. per league, and had their boletos 'ubicared' or located along the river according to the numbers on the Land Office maps, will find that they must look for land elsewhere, as the actual settlers, by special Government decree and every principle of justice, enjoy a preference. We galloped over several leagues of fine land on the river, which are supposed in Buenos Aires to belong to a leading German house; the cattle on these lands are fat and in splendid condition, and the sheep look prime; some of these lands are owned by the Provincial Bank and leased by the present occupiers. As a rule, all the land on both sides of the river is taken up, and although the cattle in the winter time have to feed on the mountains, and the grass in the valley or pampa is very sparse, there is not a thin cow, or horse, or sheep to be found for 120 leagues up. My belief is that it is the water of the Rio Negro that so fattens the cattle, for one sees much more grass in other parts, but not such fat cattle except what now and then comes to Buenos Aires from San Juan. As a rule cattle and sheep give from 40 to 50 per cent increase on the Rio Negro, and they never suffer down there from epidemic. No such thing is known as 'cuerearing' in the sense the term is applied in the north camps of Buenos Ayres. Some of the finest and best estancias of Buenos Aires I have visited, places upon which the wealthy owners have lavished every expense, yet I must admit that in all my estancia travels in Buenos Aires I have seen no place come up to Mr Kincaid's estancia on the Rio Negro. Nature, no money has done everything for the place; parks, plains, wood, water, mountain, pampa, even island it possesses: During my stay at this fine place Mr. Kincaid bought 250 novillos to 'invernar,' and instead of being obliged to pay peones to round or guard the cattle at night, he drives them across a flowing stream near his house, on to what he calls the house 'potrero,' just behind the estancia house, formed by a semi-circular lake, with a strong willow fence across the neck of the land, and there the animals, with grass up to their knees and fresh water on all sides, pass the night; this 'potrero' has an area of say 150 squares, but he has other and much larger 'potreros' on the land formed by the bends in the Rio Negro; wood is so abundant that corrales and houses cost but a mere trifle. It is a good 2 leagues gallop from the estancia house to the mountain puesto, and another 2½ to 3 leagues gallop down to the Cañada or valley on the other side of the mountain to gather up the cattle. On the estancia Lambaré, on the opposite side of the river, the land has the same conformation and the same distances; on one occasion we gathered up the cattle on a fine summer's morning and know well the ride; but let people talk as they like of the camps of B. Aires, they know nothing of what nature can do in the way of forming an estancia until they visit Kincaid's on the Rio Negro. The 'medianeros' or shepherds on the estancia are for the most part Swiss and Basques, but in the sheep puesto at the foot of the mountain, the Basque shepherd told me that at times the lions are very troublesome, particularly in winter; another drawback to these beautiful lands is the 'crescientes,' or river flood, caused by the melting of the Andes snows; sometimes these 'crescientes' are terribly formidable, and the waters cover all these beautiful potreros and rincones up to the foot of the mountains. In the year 1879 the worst flood in the memory of the oldest resident occurred, and then all the valley lay under the water and a large lake formed on the site of Kincaid's garden, where the waters remain to this day. But the great fertility of the valley is surprising. It only takes 60 days to fatten the poorest and thinnest cows brought down from Buenos Aires. In fact I have seen nothing in all my travels to surpass these Rio Negro camps, and yet they assure me that the camps on the Rio Colorado are equally good, if not even better. The finest camps in all South America belong to Sr Luro, who owns over 100 leagues on the Colorado. Within the last year cattle are finding their way very fast both to the Rio Colorado and Rio Negro, and in a couple of years a saladero down there will meet a want, but to my mind, where the cattle are in such very superior condition, a meat fabric on the style of the Liebig fabric, would be more the thing; such a fabric could work all the year round down there, as winter and summer, the cattle are fat on the Rio Negro. We commend all tourists to the Rio Negro to the care of Mr Kincaid, who is a whole-souled Greenock man, and whose estancia house is completely furnished and with extra bedrooms for friends. Seventeen of the best years of his life he has passed down there, after a short and sharp experience of Buenos Aires camp life in Magdalena. His brother is at present in Scotland trying to get a small first class steamer to ply on the Rio Negro; we hope he will succeed, as it would prove a splendid convenience. Returning from Kincaid's to Patagones, we stopped a night at the mill, and in the morning the carriage horses were not to be found; the miller kindly lent us his 'chalana' or flat bottomed boat, and improvising a sail we all sailed down the river from the mill to Patagones, about 6 leagues, enjoying a scenery which defies description, the current was so rapid that we needed neither sail nor oars, and shot alongside the Villarino at 12 o'clock, making the 18 miles in about 2 hours. We arrived back from the Rio Negro after a most agreeable 3 week's trip, pleased with everything we saw and with new views on many very old matters. Those who have time and means should not fail to take a run down in the Villarino to those neglected but fertile parts. In a few years the whole country down there will be as thickly settled as Mercedes or Lujan.

A WELL-MANAGED BANK.

"The London and River Plate Bank has now been at work here for twenty years; and, although it at one time alienated the support of this market by its illiberality, under its present liberal management it renders great service to the mercantile community and has secured a class of customers that enables it to show the profits expressed in the last Report of the Directors, which we give at foot.

"The nominal capital of the Bank is 7½ millions of hard dollars, of which only 3 millions, however, is called up. The year's profit is 361,500 hard dollars, equal to 12 per cent. on the paid-up capital. Nevertheless, only a 10 per cent. dividend has been declared—4 per cent. 'ad interim' paid in June last, and 4 per cent. with 2 per cent. bonus paid on December 21st last. 50,000 hard dollars have in addition been carried to the Reserve Fund, 3,000 written off for depreciation, and 28,000 carried over to next year. Thanks to this flourishing state of affairs, its shares command a high price in the London market. The Reserve Fund amounts to 925,000 hard dollars, or nearly one-third of the paid-up capital. Its circulating emission is 2,265,000 hard dollars. In the beginning of December its deposits were 14,325,000, its cash on hand was 7,890,000, and bills receivable, etc., 16,414,000. It has only 175,000 hard dollars sunk in its three bank buildings and furniture.

"The Bank could not be in a more prosperous position, and it well deserves the high credit it enjoys. We recommend it to the official banks as a model, as it shows the result of good direction and still better management, the figures we have quoted being an eloquent proof of both.

"A good capital, only a small part of which is called up; liberal credit to the mercantile community and private parties; but little capital sunk in real estates, and few bad debts—this is what the figures we have quoted reveal. We have published them, although the Bank is a private one, because they reveal the progress of this country and because we should look on this Bank as one of its institutions, although its capital is foreign.

"The picture would be incomplete if we omitted to state that a great part of the success of the Bank in this city is due to the liberality and courtesy of the Manager, Mr. John Todd, and his accountant, Mr. F. Humphreys, who have taken the best care of the interests confided to them, while increasing, to a really astonishing extent, both the business and the popularity of the Bank. The personal esteem which these gentlemen have won for themselves by their way of dealing with the customers of the Bank has completely changed public opinion in its regard, and it may justly be said that it owes a great part of its prosperity exclusively to them."—Pampa.

THE NEW MEMBER FOR LIVERPOOL.

SAMUEL SMITH, THE COTTON KING.

One fine morning, some forty-seven years ago, the population of the little village of Borgue was increased by one. The small unit came into the world much after the fashion of us all, made its debut on the stage of life in the customary manner, and after devoting its first attention to the various developments and processes of alimentary study presented for consideration, passed on to the alphabet, etymology, moods and tenses, summing, the rule of three, and Scriptural instruction.

You may not even know where this little village of Borgue is. It lies nestling close on the west side of Kirkcudbright Bay, some five miles from Kirkcudbright. The scenery around is tranquil and beautiful, but not tame. It was wandering through the glens and o'er the braes of this country that Robert Burns composed that noblest of his national anthems, "Scots wha hae wi Wallace bled." By day it looks out upon the bright bay, with its crested waves closed by the beautiful Island of Ross; by night the lighthouse on that isle sends a gleam of intelligence glinting across the waters, and the villagers know as they turn in to bed that the watch is well kept and the lamps are trimmed, and safe are the lives of the bonnie lads at sea. Save when some such old wanderer as Mr. Porcupine comes tramping in from Kirkcudbright there are very few strange faces ever seen in Borgue. The parents who introduced the little strange face which we have mentioned were quiet, decent Scotch folk, well respected in Borgue, and heard of now and again in Kirkcudbright as douce bodies of thrift, integrity, and worth. The father was just such another as Thomas Carlyle's father is painted. He was no Justice of the Peace as I see some of our contemporaries describe him. When Mr. Porcupine knew him he was a little farmer of the holding almost peculiar to Scotland. The good folks found it all they could do to feed the seven little bairns that sprang up around them, and when the farm was stocked for the coming year, the landlord paid, the bairns well fed, clothed and eduaated, and the "twa pun'" dropped into the old stocking for a rainy day, you may be sure there was no siller left for the gudeman's wuskie. And he never wanted it.

Well, after a while the little Scotch laddie grew in years and in learning. It was soon clear enough to the keen eyes of the parents that Samuel was too bright and clever a lad to spend his days farming at Borgue. You remember the story of the old Scotch widow who entrusted her son to the school-master, and bid him take care of him, for "she hoped tae mak a meenister of the laddie if the Lord wad gie him grace." You remember how the schoolmaster asked what she would do "if the Lord did na gie him grace." "Weel, aweel," innocently replied the old lady, "I'se just mak a skule maester of him."

This justs reflects the lot of many of the brightest sons of the Scotch farmers during many a generation. Samuel Smith was no exception. He was sent up to Edinburgh University to finish his education, and just to "mak a meenister if the Lord wad gie him grace." But after some little time in that splendid Alma Mater of Scotch philosophers, poets, and statesmen, he discovered that the busy world of action was more to his fancy than the chamber of the student or the pulpit of the divine. With a few fond tears, perhaps, over their failure to mak a meenister of him, the parents consented to this change in his career, and in 1853 Samuel Smith came down over the Tweed, that Rubicon which no son of Scotia ever re-crosses, and was apprenticed in the office of Logan and Shaw, now Logan and Fletcher. At this time he was a tall, gawky, lanky, lath-like young Scotch lad—a veritable caricature such as might have stepped out of one of Leech's famous cartoons.

He joined the congregation of the Rev. Mr Welsh, in Canning-street, and it was here that the first indications of his intellectual vigour were observed by those about him. He soon made many friends. In due time his term of apprenticeship expired. After a few years of hard work with a purpose, and a steady object before him, young Mr Smith went out to America, with a view to familiarize himself with the whole cotton business, from the plantation to the ship's side. Whilst in the United States he wrote a series of letters on the Cotton Trade which were honoured by publication in the Times, and speedily attracted universal attention; how universal can be imagined when I tell you that they were translated into and published in every language in Europe. These letters really formed the basis of Mr Samuel Smith's fortunes—they established his high business reputation at a blow. He came back to England to find himself famous. He established the firm of Smith, Edwards and Co., in 1864. Spinners were glad to have such a man for their buyer, and it is a remarkable fact, unequalled probably in the records of the Cotton Market, that in the very first year of its existence this young partnership ranked with the oldest firms in Liverpool, and netted in the first twelve months as much in brokerage as the leading houses in the town.

Some little time after this he was appointed by the Cotton Brokers' Association, who recognized his distinguished ability, to go out to India, on behalf of the trade, and make a report as to the condition of the crops, and various technical matters connected with the East Indian growth of the staple. This duty he performed with a thoroughness and ability which astonished even those who knew the man. His letters to the Times on this matter have passed into the classic literature of the market. It was while in India, thus discharging so congenial a duty, that Mr Samuel Smith received advices that Messrs James Finlay and Company required a partner. On returning home Mr Samuel Smith at once accepted the position, and was gladly taken into partnership by that distinguished firm of merchants.

In the proud position thus attained Samuel Smith still remains. Few, perhaps, have adequately realised what this means. Messrs Finlay and Company are literally at the head of the cotton merchants of Liverpool. Messrs Smith, Edwards and Company are certainly the leading cotton brokers of the city. If anyone can claim to be the Cotton King of the Port Samuel Smith seems to me to be the man. His transactions are enormous, his speculative business alone is somethiug fabulous; yet the honour of the firm is untarnished, and no name stands higher in Manchester or Liverpool than "Sam Smithis," or "Future Smith" as he is familiarly called on the flags. —And all this at the age of forty-seven!

In the hey-day of his success Samuel Smith, still a young bachelor, let his thoughts linger lovingly on the days beyond the Tweed and a bonnie little lassie whom he had often seen trotting to school when he, too, was in the power of the "skulemaster." He loved her then as a little school-girl, and no less when he sought her out again in her home in the ancient town of Biggar, in fair Lanarkshire. Time had done its work in Lanarkshire, just as surely as in Lancashire, and the little lassie had grown into a charming young lady. Her father was the Rev. Dr. Christison, the minister of the parish church there, a plain old Gothic building, built by Lord Fleming three hundred years ago in the form of a cross, and dedicated to the Virgin, but now the home of a very different ritual. This Dr. Christison was the cousin of the Queen's famous physician, Sir Robert Christison, and a man of mark and influence in the Kirk. The course of true love does not run always otherwise than smooth. They were married. They have two children, one little son of ten years old in this world and one loved child now in another and a better world.

As a literary man, Samuel Smith can claim no mean rank. His principal and largest work "Occasional Essays," has been commented on by the leading journals of Great Britain in marked language, and, besides that, he has published an admirable work full of fervent Christian spirit on "The credibility of the Christian religion," together with many able pamphlets. Though his voice prevents him being an orator, his great speech of this week was a marvel of close continuous thought, expressed with faultless verbal and grammatical accuracy.

Mr. Smith is a fervent Christian; but he believes in works rather than deeds. His charity is not merely great, it is chivalrous and princely. Princely in its extent and chivalrous in its superiority to creed or sect. It is calculated that to the Young Men's Christian Association and Gymnasium alone he has contributed about £20,000. I know as a matter of fact that every year of his life he sets aside two thirds of his income to give away in charity; and something like £8,000 to 10,000 is thus annualy spent by him, not only without ostentation, but as far as possible in secret. It is no exaggeration to say that, if one third of this sum had been spent by him politically for a few years past, Liverpool would now be a Liberal city. Some time since, some one complained to him that he was subscribing to assist Mrs. Birt to pervert Catholic children. "No," was the reply, "I subscribe to clothe and feed the starving and destitute, and if Catholics beg in similarly, I will give them the same sum." Father Nugent accepted the challenge and every year Samuel Smith subscribes precisely the same sum to Catholic as to Protestant. This is what the Yankees call "real grit," and worthy of all honour. He has never been a talker,

But this he understood,
He learned the luxury of doing good

There is not a more able man of business, a closer thinker, a more modest and chivalrous Christian gentleman in Liverpool than Samuel Smith.—Porcupine.

LITTLE PEDDLINGTON.

To the Editor of the Standard,

Sir,

In reply to the query of your courteous correspondent "Jupiter," I beg to state that he will find the stanza alluded to to be the four concluding lines of Dryden's "Ode on St. Cecilia's Day." As I quoted them from memory I will not absolutely guarantee the literal accuracy of my version, although I am inclined to believe that it is the correct one: the fact being that when I was one of the "young friends" whom Dr. Birch educated at his well-known seminary, that eminent pedagogue enlivened one whole summer vacation by setting us as a "holiday task" the conversion of the entire ode into Latin hexameters; with the result, as far as I was concerned, of such a doggrel poem as would have made Virgil consign the author to the innermost circle of Dante's "Inferno." But Dryden's sonorous cadences have remained very vividly impressed on my memory ever since; so that I have at any rate something for which to thank Mr. Michael Angelo Titmarsh's esteemed Doctor.

I must confess to the vile habit of making quotations without taking the trouble to verify their exactness. But, as in the case of the famous commander who headed his list of nineteen reasons for not returning a salute by the statement that there was no powder on board, I am compelled to acknowledge that I have no library. I must throw myself on the mercy of my critics for any lapses into which I may thus be led; and without presuming to suggest any analogy between myself and "the blind old man of Scio's rocky isle," may remind them that "aliquando bonus dormitat Homerus,"—although under the circumstances of the torrid heat through which we have lately passed, and the like of which must have been present to Horace's mind when he wrote—

"Pone me pigris ubi nulla campis
"Arbor estiva recreatur aura," it is hardly perhaps necessary that any plea for indulgence should be preferred by

A BANK FOR PATAGONES.

Viedma, Dec. 26, 1882.

Edward Mulhall, Esq.

Dear Sir,

When you arrive in the capital I hope you will not forget your promise to use your influence for the establishment of a branch bank either here or in Patagones.

Although their internal mechanism is managed by different Governments, both are towns of the nation, and drink from the same river, the Rio Negro: Thus, customs, families, interests, &c., are one, and the one common thought can be expressed in the words—"The individual welfare of the community promotes the prosperity of the country." You, a rich settler on both banks, have experienced one of the primordial necessities, and the carrying out of this proposition will fill up a want long felt. One cheer and three more for this idea, Mr. Mulhall. That it may become a reality.

Another problem of as much importance for us in particular, and for the country in general, has been solved, viz., the telegraph line and the removal of the frontier. In the everyday life of these towns there are always some principal and absorbing topics discussed. Amongst those of the highest importance here, we may mention the frontier, telegraph line, land laws and a branch bank establishment: though, it must be confessed that Viedma has not yet established a frontier line to check the raids of the Indians. With these four elements we confirm the saying of the tourist—"Patagones and Viedma are another Chicago. Epoch of Roca and of progress," &c. Without a doubt, the benefit which a banking establishment will confer, will be more needed by the industries of the place than by the capitalist as, with few exceptions, those who require money have it, and in regard to guarantee, the 30,000 cows and 300,000 sheep, not including the camps and other elements, will be sufficient security.

Unfortunately, the capitalist at present absorbs all the gains on the different industries, on account of the scarcity of ready money, which has never a fixed rate, and usurious prices are always charged. I will give you a practical example: A certain party started a manufactory, and in working the raw material sank all his patrimony, $10,000, in it, and after a few years so high was the interest he had to pay that it consumed all his capital. The same thing occurs to stock-raisers and agriculturists, and to even importing merchants, who are well up in mercantile business, and who have special agents in Buenos Aires of sufficient influence.

Apart from those few considerations, we will take the value of importations and exportations. By water (general merchandize), and by land (stock), the towns that are situated from the confluence of the Limay to the Atlantic, on the banks of the Rio Negro, import annually nearly $500,000 in goods, and export in wool, skins, &c., $150,000; in Bills on the Treasury, $250,000, and $100,000, the remaining difference, in Bills, on private parties. This difference, as also the above sums, are nearly all sunk in adequate establishments of the different industries of the country.

Another practical example can be given in your own business here. You have bought camps on the north and south side of the river, either in cash or by credit. You have invested in them six or seven times a larger capital, and can you always seize the proper moment to sell your products? Can you dispose of your wool or your cattle at an advantage when it is necessary? Without knowing your business, I can say no, for I know these two markets, and in them you will only meet with "crucificadores" or "agiotistas." You may look for money outside of these classes and you will not find it, though our industrial classes have a large amount in the bottom of their boxes, of no benefit whatever to anybody, for there is no man here, though he have a sufficient guarantee, whom they will trust, since the failure of the strong houses of Aguirre and Murga in 1874, and of Abbate and Sons in 1877, who ruined many unfortunates.

From all this you can learn my way of thinking (in a difficult matter for me) that a branch bank, with a capital of $100,000, will give an impulse to the car on the road to progress, which these towns are just entering.

On the 26th of December last the Standard took up the cudgels in favour of Viedma; to-day we commemorate it, and to-day, as then, to the proprietor and director we address the same words that found birth in our souls: Thanks for the services which your intelligence lent to the towns of the Rio Negro. May God and our sons reward you for this service.

I remain as ever,
Yours truly,
Isaias Crespo.

EDITOR'S TABLE

The glorious change in the weather yesterday restored the half dead public to whole life. The "temporal" which threatened on Wednesday evening burst somewhere else, but the delicious 'pampero' came on and revived the vital powers of man and beast. The awful heat of Wednesday caused several cases of sunstroke, one fatal, and many poor horses succumbed to it; the number of small-pox cases also increased sensibly. However, the worst is over, and it is unlikely that we shall have another such spell of excessive heat this summer. By the way. Is there no one ready to make an enormous fortune by leasing the Plaza Parque terminus and turning it into a Public Bath House? The Belgrano Baths are only for the well-to-do, and even for those who can afford ten paper dollars for a daily swim, the journey to and fro does away with the good of the bath, besides being woefully tiresome. Lord Mayor Alvear has already done much, very much for the city. He already deserves a statue, but nothing he has yet done would be of greater permanent benefit to the population than the establishment of Bath Houses in different parts of the metropolis. We commend the subject to his attention.

The death of Dr. Salvador del Carril, ex-President of the Supreme Federal Court, was announced yesterday. We refer briefly in another column to the long career of this distinguished Argentine. The members of the Tribunal over which he presided so worthily for so many years, met yestesday, and decreed special honours to his memory, including a letter of condolence to his family, and the hanging of his portrait in the Grand Hall of the Tribunal. Few men have had the privilege of rendering such long and varied services to their native land. The funeral takes place this morning at 9 a.m.

All the hullabaloo about the Misiones Question is to end in Arbitration. Her Majesty the Queen of England and Empress of India is the arbitratrix proposed by this republic, and Brazil is not likely to refuse, or wish for any other judge. As for war, the London capitalists have quashed that idea, if it was ever entertained.

Mr Thomas Drysdale visited the Irish Orphanage in Calle Rio Bamba on Wednesday, and expressed himself as both surprised and delighted with the establishment. Before leaving he made the munificent donation of $10,000 %—$5,000 for the little orphans and $5,000 for the Building Fund. True philanthropy knows no difference of creed, and Mr Drysdale's noble example does him high honour. The prayers of hundreds of fatherless orphans are his.

The British community passed a vote of censure on Havas yesterday for not providing them with some more news about Mr Gladstone's health. When Gambetta was sick his countrymen had daily telegrams about his condition, and surely the Prime Minister of Great Britain merits, to say the least, equal attention from our cablegram friend.

"Everything has its use," said a philosophical professor to his class. "Of what use is a drunkard's fiery red nose?" asked one of the pupils. "It is a lighthouse," answered the professor, "to warn us of the little water that passes underneath."

There is a pleasant anticipatory flutter in the Village of the Plain in reference to the coming theatricals in aid of the local English Church. We hear that the theatre there is the coolest place in the whole Republic, like an ice-house in fact; and even in the great heat of the past few days should be raging again on the 22d, those who attend the performance may calculate on the most agreeable of temperatures. We never knew till yesterday that the Flores Theatre is larger than the Opera House and can hold 3,000 people. The original price of a "palco" in fee-simple was $30,000 m/c, but the holder who can now secure one-tenth of that amount considers himself a happy man and is indisputably a wiser one. The place should be turned into a Swim Bath. The improvement in personal appearance of the Belgrano men, since they got their S.B. is quite wonderful, and should stimulate the Flores men and brothers to push on the Water Works scheme mooted some time ago.

What a shamefully loose way of doing public business prevails in this country! The fire in the 'botica' in Calle Chacabuco the other night has reacted on the National Revenue Department. It appears that a Collector of Revenue lodged in the house and, when the fire broke out, had barely time to save himself, leaving a hundred or so important "espedientes" behind him, a prey to the flames. The bare idea of a public employé being allowed to keep public documents in his own house is too exquisite for comment.

The private theatricals at Colonia tomorrow night will probably attract a crowd from this side. The steamer will start in the afternoon, and those who so desire can be back here for breakfast on Sunday morning, after enjoying the ball which will follow the theatricals. Should any of them be inclined for that unmanly sport bull-fighting, they can remain to see a few poor brutes butchered and be back here in time for a light supper and bed on Sunday evening. We hear of an interesting incident in connection with these theatricals. Dr Webster's talented little daughter is down in the bill to deliver the prologue, and, in order to give her more time to study it, it was telegraphed (130 words) from here on Wednesday, Chevalier Oldham gracefully waiving any charge for the message, in compliment to the young lady and the charitable nature of the entertainment. "Preux Chevalier."

Our Rosario friends are again complaining of the bad postal service. On Wednesday at 2.30 p.m., nothing had been delivered. Perhaps Dr. Irigoyen who when in Rosario must have heard of these often-occurring irregularities, may be able to do something to induce our Postmaster to remedy the abuse. Why he will insist on subventioning the very worst of the three lines of steamers, is inexplicable.

The thermometer marked 75 Fahrenheit yesterday, a pretty considerable change from the 103 in the shade of Wednesday.

The evening papers of yesterday report awful camp fires in Santa Fé, Cordoba and Buenos Aires, extending over hundreds of leagues. The famed Venado Tuerto camps came in for their share of it. It is feared that the losses are very great.

Telegrams from Genoa report that the mails and cargo of the Nord America have all gone to the bottom with the ill-fated wreck. Crew and passengers saved.

The steamer Cosmos had a rough passage from Montevideo on Wednesday night. She was crowded with High Life bathers from Pocitos, and didn't old Neptune, or whoever represents him in fresh water, give the fashionables a touch of his quality? The ladies were awfully sick and frightened, and one of them asked a clergyman on board to recite the Prayers for the Dying, which he kindly did, until he had to bolt for the vessel's side. The aspect of the passengers, male and female, when they landed on the Mole yesterday morning, was enough to make a crocodile weep.

The Western Railway Directors are trying to stop the public clamour against their terminus at Plaza Once by opening a luggage office in the centre of town. This won't do. The trains must be run to the Central Station.

There was intense joy in Lottery agent circles yesterday in reference to the note of the Chief Justice of the Criminal Court, refusing to allow the Lord Mayor to send policemen into the agencies, to see if any other tickets but those for the Capital Lottery are sold therein. The Judge says that the Penal Code has no clause that prohibits the sale of Lottery Tickets, and, except in cases of fraud, no man's house can be entered in search for them. This is the Waterloo of the long campaign of the Municipality against the Lottery agents, who are now masters of the field. The only way for the Capital Lottery to conquer its many competitors is to give a larger proportion of prizes to the public and much higher commissions to the ticket

Ayer's Hair Vigour
(A DESIDERATUM)
For restoring the Natural Vitality and Colour of the Hair.

Prepared according to scientific and physiological bases with the object of bettering the condition of the hair, it stimulates the enfeebled glands of the scalp into healthy action, arrests the falling of the hair and promotes its luxuriant growth; rendering it soft, youthful and glossy.

This excellent preparation, the best and without doubt the only one as a remedial agent for the many defects and diseases to which the hair is subject, calls for and merits the most serious attention of all those who have had the misfortune to lose partially this most beautiful and natural ornament. AYER'S HAIR VIGOUR employed intelligently has obtained really surprising results. Faded or grey hair it restores to its original colour; and lost hair is often, but not always, reproduced.

It has always PREVENTED FALLING of the hair; whilst as a dressing ladies say it is the most agreeable as it is the most beneficent. Containing neither dye nor oil, it does not soil the finest cambric.

National Bank Shares	107

The weakness in the National Bank Share market became more accentuated to-day and it appears that the plethora of favorable news is weakening the stock. Although, since the fall began, only 5,000 shares have been sold quotations shew a decided drop, owing to the fact that several parties have been letting go. Operations during official hours ruled dull, only 1,700 sold. Rates for cash are quoted firm at 107. Quotations for the end of the month opened at 108¾, but fell gradually to 107½, closing at 107½. Speculation for the end of the next month has nearly died out, only 100 shares sold at 108¾. The fall in the stock has been gradual and steady, but the market closed this morning at official hours at 108. Meantime, the subscription to the new shares of the Bank already exceeds 62,000 in this city alone, and the bulls in the market are at a loss to account for the falling tendency of the stock in the face of so much good news. The fact is that those who bought in heavily at four and five per cent. under actual rates are selling, which circumstance coupled with the efforts of the bears has occasioned a steady fall.

Operations in Cedulas ruled very dull this morning, and operations during official hours did not amount to $f.100,000. Series A maintains its quotation at 100¾, but only little sold. Series E rules weak; thirty one thousand were sold for cash, rates opening at 84¾, rising to 84¾ and closing at the opening rate. Sales for the end of the month amounted to $f.29,000, rates opening at 85½ and closing at 85¾. A like amount was sold for the end of next month at 85½. The market rules very dull and heavy.

Very few operations are reported in gold; there are buyers at 25.00¼, but sellers none. Discounts present the usual features; exchange rules very dull, rates unchanged.

The telegraphic correspondent of the Bolsa in Genoa has at last sent a laconic message announcing the loss of the Nord America. The news is stale and the Camara Syndical should look to a better correspondent in Genoa.

The steamer Claris arrived to-day in Montevideo from Barcelona with 43 passengers and 1,200 tons of cargo for this city.

Mr. Oscar Bennert was welcomed to-day on his return from Lincoln; he reports great drought in all the Northern camps and numerous camp fires.

The London and River Plate Bank has received a telegraphic order from the Equitatiba Insurance Company to pay $f.10,000 life insurance of deceased for Esmaty We congratulate Mr. Morales on the alacrity shewn in this business.

Telegrams received from Rossio to-day announce heavy rains; the rain was very much wanted, and it is to be hopel that the downpour will be general throughout the Interior. These last hot days have involved camp fires all over the country, in this province, in Cordoba, Santa Fé and other parts. These camp fires may also account for the extraordinary heat felt yesterday in Buenos Aires and Rosario.

The gale last night was very sudden, but no casualities of any importance are reported. Several whaleboats dragged their anchors and were driven against the Mole and on shore.

The faena has begun in Rio Grande do Sul. Several thousand head of cattle have been sold up to the present. The slaughter this year proceeds very slowly, owing to the unsettled condition of the jerked beef market and the heavy losses sustained last year in the article.

Advices from Bradfort announce many failures amongst the wool firms of that city; combing wool difficult of sale and market very much depressed.

Mr. Lee Borell, of Chicago, has arrived in this market, as representative of the M. Cormick Harvesting Machine Company.

The sales at the ring were as follows:—
Cedulas—
For cash A 4,450 at 100¾
For cash E 31,000 at 84¾-¾-¾
For Feb. 28th E 29,000 at 85¾-¾

Messrs Baltar & Quesada's fine auction mart was crowded to-day with brokers, editors, bank-managers and the leading lights of camp and town. The sale of Mr Anderson's fine stud drew the crowded attendance. The auctioneer brought the horses to the hammer as follows:—

Horse	Price	Buyer
Townhill	28,000	N. Torre
Eolo	25,000	C. Lumb
Balmoral	17,000	A. Oostedorp
Linda	10,000	A. Huergo

Catalina	3,300	Castilla
Mariquita	1,400	Bayo
Zulema	4,000	Barcelo

Total	107,200	$%

Messas. Baltar sold also:
A carriage 11,500 Bicku
Do 3,000 Grau
2 cab horses 1,800 Arquiola
A mare mestiza 1,100 Victoria
Do 2,000 Pasta

The arrivals in the wool markets continue to be rather limited. Good wools are in constant demand, but shipments proceed slowly. Bad qualities are neglected and it is calculated that 900,000 arrobes of wool have been already sent to deposit. The inactivity of the markets affects exchange and freights; the latter are very low at 15s.

The fine house at the corner of Cuyo and San Martin, was bought by Mr Manuel Salas.

The bids for the amortization of the Hard Dollar Loan will be opened to-morrow in the National Credit Office.

A sudden turn took place in speculation at afterhours; shares ran up to 109 for the end of the month, the market closing buyers at that rate and no sellers. Several hundred shares were sold.

The sales at afterhours were:—

VACUNO

3000 cabezas raza Durham, desde media sangre hasta puras, todas ellas lecheras selectas e hijos e hijas de estas.

El establecimiento se ha esmerado siempre en obtener hacienda grande en tamaño, buen cuero y sin excepcion superiores como lecheras pues no hay ninguna vaca que de menos de doce cuartas y en su mayor parte 18 y 20 cuartas de leche.

TOROS—Raza Durham puros y mestizos de un año arriba hasta dos.

Notice to Flax Growers.

The undersigned is now prepared to supply Flax Growers with specially constructed machine, with reversible gear for making tow or scutching the fine fibre.

Their suitability for the above purpose cannot be denied and their simplicity of working is such that a youth of 12 years can manage them with perfect safety. The machine is so constructed that the breaking and scutching processes are performed at the same time, so that there are in reality two machines combined in one, doing their work simultaneously.

The machine being constructed on wheels, can be easily moved to any part of the lint field.

For cheapness the price will be so reasonable that it will come within the reach of all, and for durability and completness in doing their work none has as yet been offered with such advantages to cultivator of Flax.
